

At Guardian, account security is important to us. Beginning March 3rd, additional levels of authentication will be required when signing into accounts. We are rolling this out in phases, with the first being applied to our broker community, then to all users. So be on the lookout.